Center for Nutritional Excellence

Nutrition & Cancer

Maintaining good nutrition plays an important role in your health, especially when you're undergoing cancer treatment. Eating the right diet during and after treatment can help you manage your symptoms, stay strong and maximize your tolerance to treatment.

Individualized Care

At the Center for Nutritional Excellence, our registered dietitians provide nutrition therapy for individualized care. Our consultations are tailored to meet your specific needs, and may include a review of your current diet, symptoms management and tube-feeding management.

Therapy Goals

- Aid in recovery and healing
- Improve treatment tolerance
- Maintain strength and energy
- Maximize quality of life
- Minimize nutrition-related side effects
- Preserve muscle mass
- Prevent or reverse nutrient deficiencies
- Protect immune function

Nutrition therapy is available before, during and after treatment. To meet with our dietitian, please:

- Have your physician fax a referral to (407) 303-0780
- Call (407) 303-8157 to schedule your appointment
